

Beware of the King!

To checkmate the enemy king with two rooks, cut it off to an edge of the board.

If the enemy king gets too close to your rooks, move them to the other side of the board and continue cutting off!

On which board should the rooks be moved to the other side before they continue cutting the king off to the lower edge? Mark the correct answer.

