

First American Flag

In 1776 a seamstress named Betsy Ross sewed the first American flag at the request of George Washington. The flag was officially established on June 14, 1777. In the beginning it had 13 red and white stripes and 13 stars, because that was the number of the original colonies. When new states were added, a new star appeared on the flag, and now there are 50 of them.

What was the name of the woman who sewed the very first American flag? Trace the path that spells out her name.

Check the correct answers.

How many stars did the first flag have?

10

50

13

How many stripes did the first flag have?

13

51

10

