

Homework Blues

Read the story about Sal and Cal. Check the box that shows how each character feels about homework.

Sal and Cal are twins. They are both in third grade. On the bus ride home, they are chatting about homework...

"I cannot wait to get home and ride our new bikes," Sal said. "I know, me either, but we will have to get our homework done first, you know the rules," Cal reminded him. Sal and Cal's mom had a rule at their house, finish all homework before playing. The boys had gotten new bikes for their birthday and it was finally nice enough outside for them to ride them around the neighborhood.

"Why do we always have so much homework? I really wish that we didn't have it at all!" Sal complained.

"I know, but we have to practice our spelling words if we want to do well on the test on Friday. It is better to just get it done," Cal explained.

1. How does Sal feel about homework?

He loves it.

☐

He does not like it.

☐

2. How does Cal feel about homework?

He does not like it.

☐

He feels like it is important.

☐