

THE BIG SURPRISE

READ THE STORY.

Lin and Jeff walked down the crowded aisle. Jeff pushed the cart since he was four years older than Lin.

"Hmmm, let's see. Ketchup, mustard, buns," Lin said as she crossed items off her list.

"We need pickles and potato chips. Then we can go get the hamburgers," Jeff reminded his sister.

"I am so excited, Jeff! Don't you think Mom and Dad will love our surprise?" Lin asked in her cheerful voice.

"Absolutely, sis! You had a great idea to make them dinner," Jeff smiled.

After the children put the rest of the groceries in the cart, they joined their big sister, Alisa, by the checkout lane. She had picked up the bags of ice. They heard her car keys jingling as they approached.

"Hey, guys! I think we have everything. Let's check out," Alisa said as they came closer.
